This is the eighth office action for application number 10/695,107, Carrier for Various-Sized Articles Operatively Supported by a Vehicle, filed on October 24, 2003.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Patent 5,881,477 to Watson. Watson discloses an apparatus (10) capable of supporting one or more articles of various sizes and shapes on an vehicle surface during transport with a mechanized vehicle, the apparatus comprising: one or more straps (28, 47, 50); a planar platform (12) having a body and a periphery (see Fig. below) and cooperating with one or more straps for holding the one or more article against the platform; a planar bottom surface parallel to the top surface for engaging the surface; one or more handles (20), protruding from and in substantially close proximity to the periphery, for grasping the platform; a plurality of bearing members (surfaces between the slots, 18) arranged in succession to enable adjustment of one or more straps; a plurality of slots (18) separating bearing members; and at least one recess (section between ribs 22), aligned with the plurality of slots and the bearing members, recessing from the bottom surface into the body of the platform, for accepting the one or more straps through at least two of the slots for engaging the straps against the bearing members and for preventing the straps from engaging the surface.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 8 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Watson in view of U.S. Patent 6,178,666 to Kiniry et al. hereinafter, Kiniry. Watson discloses the claimed invention except for the limitations of the top surface and the bottom surface of the platform having a slip resistant material. Kiniry teaches an apparatus (10) capable of supporting one or more straps, a planar platform having a body and cooperating with the straps, a planar top surface, a planar bottom surface, and wherein the planar top and bottom surfaces includes a slip resistance material, i.e., the material of the apparatus is a thermosetting, polyurethane elastomer (Col. 2, lines 33ff), which is generally known to be slip resistant. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to have modified the material of the apparatus in Watson to have included the material as taught by Kiniry for the purpose of providing a means for preventing unwanted slipping of the article supported on The platform and between the surface and the apparatus.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed April 21, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicant's argument that element 20 (curved lip) in Watson is used as a means for gripping the son or ice-covered terrain, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
